

WeCare

policyholder FAQs

1 What is WeCare?

WeCare is a new phone and email based support service to help all AIA Australia Priority Protection policyholders and their immediate family whenever they need it and not just when they have submitted a claim. WeCare provides access to a range of life assistance and support services including counselling and grief support, legal and tax assistance, home assistance, funeral assistance and general assistance.

2 Can you please tell me about the WeCare services in more detail?

Counselling and grief support offers confidential advice and guidance for you and your immediate family. WeCare qualified counsellors can help you identify, explore and manage issues that might impact your life whilst offering coping strategies to help you get through this difficult time.

WeCare legal and tax assistance gives you access to qualified lawyers for advice on your circumstances and the safeguards you might need to protect you and your family for future events.

Home assistance offers practical help in sourcing a range of services for around the house in the event that you have a disability or serious illness. These might include gardening, cleaning, building services or child minding.

Funeral assistance can help with all the arrangements necessary to plan a funeral.

3 How can I access WeCare?

Simply phone 1800 990 489 or email aiawecare@nhs.com.au

4 Who can access WeCare?

WeCare is available to all AIA Australia Priority Protection policyholders and members of their immediate family.

5 When can I access WeCare?

- Emergency telephone counselling, grief support and funeral assistance are available on a 24 hours a day, 7 days a week basis. They are also supported by a live conference translation service in approximately 180 languages.
- All other WeCare services are available 9.00am to 5.00pm in all time zones.

6 What if I work irregular hours or live in a remote area?

'Counselling in a Click' is a confidential service available to people working irregular hours or in remote, regional or distant locations. It's an online service that can be accessed through most web browsers (like internet explorer). No software installation is needed. It's not face to face, but you'll receive confidential counselling, electronically through the WeCare service provider website, in real time. The entire session and all information gathered are protected and all replies are confidential.

7 Who is the provider of WeCare?

The provider of the WeCare service is the National Helpline Service. They have a strong reputation as a leading supplier of assistance and employee benefit programs in Australia.

The support services are provided by a panel of professionally qualified lawyers, tax accountants, psychologists and social workers. They are all accredited experts and highly experienced in their field. All service providers are pre-screened by National Helpline Service and are fully insured.

With service professionals located throughout metropolitan and regional Australia, they are ready to help.

8 How much does it cost?

The only costs that you need to consider are the costs charged by your telecommunications provider for calling the WeCare phone number and any costs that you may elect to accept as a result of any recommendations given by the WeCare service. There is no charge to you or your immediate family members for the counselling and other assistance services provided over the phone and via email.

9 Is WeCare only available over the phone or can I see someone face-to-face?

WeCare is a phone and email based support service. Where appropriate, the professional practitioner you speak with can refer you to an appropriate provider for face to face support – at this point any additional costs will be at your expense.

10 Will AIA Australia have access to my personal information collected by WeCare?

No, the WeCare service is a completely confidential conversation between the consultant and you. AIA Australia does not request or have access to any personal information disclosed during a WeCare consultation.

11 Can I use the service more than once?

Yes, you can use the services as often as you need although any individual consultation will generally be limited a two hour period.

12 What is the WeCare process?

- Step 1 Call WeCare on 1800 990 489.
- Step 2 Your call will be answered by a WeCare representative.
- Step 3 You will need to quote your AIA Australia Priority Protection policy number.
- Step 4 The WeCare representative will discuss your needs and log the appropriate details in their database.
- Step 5 If you require immediate consultation, you'll be introduced to the appropriate WeCare Service Professional such as a counsellor. If immediate consultation is not required, the WeCare representative will arrange for a convenient time for someone to call you back.
- Step 6 The WeCare Service Professional completes the call and logs the call details including the outcome.

The WeCare service is provided free-of-charge to AIA Australia's Priority Protection policyholders and their family members by National Helpline Service. National Helpline Service is responsible for selecting, vetting and appointing the counsellors and professionals who support the telephone assistance line.

The WeCare service is an additional service provided to AIA Australia Priority Protection policyholders and does not form part of a policyholder's insurance policy with AIA Australia. AIA Australia can withdraw or change the WeCare services at any time.

The telephone counselling services and any additional services provided by WeCare are intended to provide general guidance and support, and may not take into account all of the recipient's objectives, personal circumstances, financial situation and/or needs. Before making any decision based on the services received from the WeCare counselling service, the recipient should consider the appropriateness of the service to their objectives, personal circumstances, financial situation and needs, and whether they need to consult an appropriate professional (including their financial adviser) for additional, tailored assistance.
