Important information about beneficiary nominations

Who is a dependant?

A dependant includes

- A spouse *;
- A child (includes an adopted child, stepchild, ex-nuptial child, a child of your spouse and someone who is your child within the meaning of the Family Law Act 1975);
- Any person who is financially dependent on you;
- Any person with whom you have an interdependency relationship.

What is an interdependency relationship?

Two people are said to have an interdependency relationship if:

- They have a close personal relationship; and
- Live together; and
- One or each of them provides the other with financial support; and
- One or each of them provides the other with domestic support and personal care.

Two people who have a close personal relationship but who cannot satisfy all of the other requirements of an interdependency relationship because of a physical, intellectual or psychiatric disability, still have an interdependency relationship.

If the person whose name is specified below differs from a previous nomination made by you, the previous nomination(s) will be revoked.

Relationship to you (please tick (✓) one of the following only)

- Spouse Child Financial dependent Interdependent

Please note: Your nomination will be used as a guide by the trustee as to whom your benefit should be paid, but it is not binding on us. The trustee has absolute discretion in determining to whom your benefits will be paid on your death. Upon notification of your death, we will move your whole account balance to the Savings investment option. Your benefit will remain in this investment option until such time as the trustee makes a decision as to who will receive your benefits.

* This includes (a) another person (whether of the same sex or different sex) with whom you are in a relationship that is registered under a law of a state or territory prescribed for the purposes of section 22B of the Acts Interpretation Act 1901 as a kind of relationship for the purposes of that section; and (b) another person who although not legally married to you, lives with you on a genuine domestic basis in a relationship as a couple.

Section E – Declaration and acknowledgement

- I declare that the information provided on this form is correct;
- I request that your records be updated to reflect the changes indicated.
